Abstract The Cultural Policy Report is a long-term strategy and action plan for this area of social policy, prepared in accordance with Prime Minister Petteri Orpo's government program and submitted to Parliament by the government. The report addresses the preservation, renewal, and vitality of the cultural foundation, as well as the operational conditions of the cultural and creative sectors, to enhance their societal impact. The time horizon of the report extends into the 2040s, thus covering multiple government terms.

The report presents a vision for cultural policy, divided into four objectives. These objectives are based on an assessment of the most likely developments that will have the greatest impact on the future of cultural policy. To achieve these objectives, the necessary common guidelines and measures have been outlined, based on a comprehensive situation analysis derived from extensive research and statistical data, expert opinions, public discussions, and hearings.

The report expresses the power of culture and a hopeful future for all.
